HONG KONG

12th January 2009

A DECENT PROPOSAL

The Peninsula Hong Kong has long been a preferred venue for romance. Whether one is celebrating a wedding or an anniversary, more than any other hotel in Hong Kong, the hotel has helped to make special occasions even more spectacular.

But before vows are spoken, a proposal must be expressed. At The Peninsula, this can be done high above the city, as couples take to the skies in the hotel's exclusive twin-engine Aerospatiale Squirrel helicopter. Favoured by lovebirds, if hearing "Yes!" above the engine noise is a challenge, then lip reading the exclamation ought to be a breeze.

Alternatively, for an earth-bound experience also aimed to elicit a resounding "Yes!", choose a candlelit dinner in one of The Peninsula's award-winning restaurants or celebrate privately in one of its well-appointed suites.

With so many ways to celebrate Valentine's Day at The Peninsula – ranging from a 15-minute flight-seeing tour for HK$ 5,500 to the "Pen-Ultimate" package in the 370 sq m Peninsula Suite, plus everything in between – guests are spoilt for choice. Even when it comes to dining, there are many options, with romantic dinners served in seven outlets (Felix, The Pool, The Verandah, The Lobby, Gaddi's, Spring Moon and Imasa). The special highlight of all, of course, is The Pool, which is open to the public only once a year. Moreover, Spa packages by The Peninsula Spa by ESPA allow guests to continue the pursuit of romance, while luxurious offerings from The Peninsula Boutique make gift giving simple.
