DINING

The Peninsula Shanghai's five distinctive restaurants and lounges – two of which are Michelin-starred, making it the only hotel in mainland China with two concurrent Michelin-starred restaurants – are among the city's top dining and drinking destinations:

- Yi Long Court (two Michelin stars), offering sublime modern Cantonese cuisine in the setting of a 1930s Shanghai nobleman's house. The restaurant has six private dining rooms and a signature Peninsula Chinese Chef's Table.
- Sir Elly's Restaurant (one Michelin star), where creative European dishes are served across two levels, in a sophisticated, high-ceilinged dining room and an upstairs rooftop space – both of which have views over the Huangpu River and Pudong skyline.
- The Lobby, where stately columns and floor-to-ceiling windows set the scene for all-day light dining, and Afternoon Tea accompanied by live music performers.
- Salon de Ning, whose glamorous décor, evening dancing, and menu of exotic cocktails evokes the decadence of 1930s Shanghai.
- The Compass Bar, where fine spirits, wines, and creative bar bites are served in a low-lit lounge adorned with memorabilia highlighting Shanghai's maritime history.
